Overview of Alpha Kappa Alpha

History and Values

Alpha Kappa Alpha (AKA) was established on January 15, 1908, at Howard University by 12 visionary women who sought to create a space for intellectual growth, community service, and mutual support. As the first Greek-lettered sorority founded by African American women, AKA broke barriers and set a standard for excellence. Its core values—scholarship, service, sisterhood, and leadership—continue to guide its members today.

From its early days, AKA has championed causes ranging from education reform to civil rights advocacy. The organization's commitment to social justice is evident in its signature initiatives, such as the Project 100,000, which encourages members to volunteer 100 hours of community service. These programs underscore the sorority's belief that true success is measured not only by personal achievement but also by the positive impact one has on society.
