Led Zeppelin's catalog spans studio albums, live recordings, compilations, and box sets. Below is a quick snapshot of their core releases as cataloged on Discogs:

- Led /Zeppelin (1969) – The debut self titled album, often confused with the 1970 LP of the same name.
- Led /Zeppelin II (1969) – The second studio album featuring "Immigrant Song."
- Led /Zeppelin III (1970) – A mix of hard rock and folk influences.
- Led /Zeppelin IV (1971) – The iconic release with "Stairway to Heaven."
- Physical Graffiti (1975) – A double LP that showcases the band's versatility.
- Houses of the Holy (1973) – A landmark album blending progressive elements.

Discogs lists each release with its own unique Release ID and Master ID. The Master ID groups all pressings of a particular album, while each Release ID represents a specific pressing (e.g., UK 12 inch vinyl, US 10 inch single).

Decoding Catalog Numbers and Pressing Details

Led Zeppelin records often have multiple catalog numbers across different countries and labels. Here's how to interpret them:

- Label Prefix – The first few letters indicate the record label (e.g., "LZ" for Atlantic, "RL" for Atlantic's UK imprint).
- Format Code – "LP" for long play, "EP" for extended play, "CD" for compact disc.
- Release Year – Usually the last two digits (e.g., "70" for 1970).
- Pressing Code – A letter or number that identifies the pressing version (e.g., "A" for the first pressing).

On Discogs, each release's Notessection often includes additional details like pressing color, lacquer quality, and pressing plant.
