- Hospitality Management Courses

Each program is designed to blend rigorous academic theory with practical, hands on training, ensuring graduates are ready for the demands of the global culinary industry.

Understanding Le /Cordon /Bleu Malaysia Tuition Fees

The term "le cordon bleu malaysia tuition fees" refers to the cost of enrolling in one of the above programs at the Malaysian campus. Tuition fees are structured around the program duration, the level of training, and the resources provided. Below, we detail the typical fee ranges for the most popular programs.

Diploma in Culinary Arts

For the 12 month full time program, the tuition fee usually ranges from RM /30,000 to RM /35,000. This fee covers:

- Full time classroom instruction and practical labs
- Access to state of the art kitchen facilities
- Course materials and textbooks
- Guest chef workshops and industry networking events

Diploma in Pastry & Baking

This 12 month intensive program typically costs between RM 28,000 and RM 33,000. The fee includes:

- Hands on pastry labs with professional equipment
- Ingredient supply for coursework
- Access to the campus bakery and confectionery workshops
- Certification upon successful completion

Executive Chef Programme

The Executive Chef Programme is a 9 month course aimed at mid career chefs seeking advanced skills. Tuition ranges from RM 25,000 to RM 30,000 and covers:

- Advanced menu design and kitchen management modules
- Leadership and team building workshops
- Industry placement opportunities

Hospitality Management Courses

Short term, 6 month courses in hospitality management cost approximately RM 18,000 to RM 22,000. These courses cover:

- Operations management
- Customer service excellence
- Financial planning for food businesses

What Influences Tuition Fees?

While the base tuition is set by the institution, several factors can affect the final amount a student pays:

1. Program Duration – Longer courses naturally cost more due to extended faculty hours and resource usage.
2. Course Level – Executive or specialized courses often carry a premium due to advanced content and industry ties.
3. Included Facilities – Programs that provide access to premium kitchen equipment, specialty ingredients, or on campus accommodation may have higher fees.
4. Scholarships and Grants – Availability of financial aid can reduce the net cost significantly.
5. Seasonal Variations – Early bird discounts or late enrolment surcharges can influence the total cost.

Comparing Costs: Le Cordon Bleu vs. Other Culinary Schools in Malaysia

When evaluating the value of a Le Cordon Bleu education, it's essential to benchmark against other culinary institutions. Here's a quick comparison:

| Institution | Program | Tuition (RM) |
|---|---|---|
| Le /Cordon /Bleu Malaysia | Diploma in Culinary Arts (12 /mo) | 30,000–35,000 |
| Chef College | Diploma in Culinary Arts (12 /mo) | 22,000–27,000 |
| Singapore Institute of Technology (SIT) – Malaysia Branch | Diploma in Culinary Arts (12 /mo) | 28,000–32,000 |
| Royal College of Culinary Arts | Diploma in Pastry & Baking (12 /mo) | 25,000–30,000 |

While Le Cordon Bleu's tuition is on the higher end, the brand's global recognition, industry connections, and comprehensive curriculum often justify the premium for many students.

Breaking Down the Tuition Fee Structure

To provide clarity, let's examine how the tuition fee is typically allocated across a 12 month program:

- Instruction Fees (60%) – Covers faculty salaries, curriculum development, and course delivery.
- Facility Usage (15%) – Includes kitchen maintenance, equipment depreciation, and lab consumables.
- Course Materials (10%) – Textbooks, online resources, and specialty ingredients.
- Student Services (5%) – Career counseling, internship coordination, and alumni networking.
- Administrative Costs (10%) – Registration, financial aid processing, and campus operations.

Understanding this breakdown helps students see where their money is going and assess the value proposition.

Payment Options & Financing Strategies

Le /Cordon /Bleu Malaysia offers several payment methods to accommodate different financial situations:

1. Full Payment – Pay the entire tuition upfront. Some students receive a small discount (up to 5%) for early payment.
2. Installment Plans – Spread the cost over 3–6 monthly instalments. Interest may apply if the payment plan extends beyond 6 months.
3. Bank Loans – Partner banks often offer education loans with competitive rates for culinary students.
4. Scholarships & Grants – Le /Cordon /Bleu Malaysia, along with corporate partners, offers merit based and need based scholarships.

Students should consult the finance office early to understand the specific terms, deadlines, and any potential penalties for late payments.

Scholarships and Financial Aid

Le Cordon Bleu Malaysia offers a range of scholarships aimed at reducing the financial burden. Below are common scholarship categories:

- Merit Based Scholarship – Awarded to students with outstanding academic records or culinary achievements.
- Need Based Scholarship – Designed for students from low income families.
- Industry Partner Scholarship – Corporate partners, such as hotel chains or food brands, sponsor students in exchange for future employment commitments.
- International Student Scholarship – For students from overseas who demonstrate financial need.

To apply, students typically need to submit:

1. Academic transcripts and portfolio
2. Letter of recommendation
3. Personal statement or essay
4. Proof of financial need (for need based scholarships)

Scholarship deadlines often coincide with admission deadlines, so early preparation is key.

Additional Costs to Consider

While tuition covers core academic expenses, students should budget for the following ancillary costs:

Books and Study Materials

Estimated cost: RM /1,500–2,000 per semester. These include cookbooks, reference guides, and online subscription fees.

Equipment and Uniforms

Students may need to purchase chef whites, knives, and other personal tools. Estimated cost: RM /2,000–3,000

Accommodation

On campus dormitory fees range from RM /3,000–4,000 per month, while off campus rentals vary based on location and amenities.

Living Expenses

Food, transportation, and personal expenses can add up to RM /1,500–2,500 per month.

Travel & Visa (for International Students)

International students may need to budget for travel to Malaysia and visa processing fees, typically ranging from RM /2,000–3,000

Student Life and ROI: What You Gain Beyond the Classroom

Choosing Le /Cordon /Bleu Malaysia is an investment in more than just culinary skills. Here's what you can expect:

- Global Network – Access to a worldwide alumni community, opening doors to international job opportunities.
- Industry Partnerships – Guest chefs, internships, and collaborations with leading hotels and restaurants.
